Adjunct Emergency Workforce Provides Critical Support

The Adjunct Emergency Workforce (AEW) is an important part of the Commonwealth's strategy for providing critical support for Emergency Response and Recovery activities during declared emergencies such as hurricanes, floods, public health emergencies, and other significant emergency events. Registered AEW participants can be temporarily reassigned from their normal roles to specific AEW designated roles to close critical staffing gaps during disasters. Learn more about AEW in a virtual information session on October 18 from noon to 12:30pm to learn more about eligibility, registration, and how you can help the Commonwealth respond to an emergency!
